The President and Council would wish to record the Society’s gratitude for this generous support over many years. Within the Society the project has been steered by the Croft Lyons Committee and supported financially by the Croft Lyons and Research Funds.
Foreword

This is the third of a projected four volumes of the Dictionary of British Arms – Medieval Ordinary, an Ordinary being an arrangement of arms according to their design. This Ordinary covers the period from the beginnings of heraldry in the twelfth century to 1530 – the end of the medieval period for English and Welsh heraldic chronology, as the county surveys known as ‘Heralds’ Visitations’ started then.

Work on this Ordinary originally began in 1940 under the direction of Sir Anthony Wagner, Garter King of Arms (as he later became). The Society of Antiquaries appointed him joint General Editor of the Dictionary of British Arms in 1940 and he was sole General Editor from 1944 until his death in 1995. Volume One was published in 1992 and Volume Two in 1996 and I am delighted that Volume Three is being published after a gap of some years. It is to be hoped that the momentum can be maintained to complete this part of the Dictionary of British Arms with Volume Four in the near future.

The origins of this Ordinary lie in a card index containing approximately 114,000 cards. The decision to produce a medieval Ordinary using computers was taken in 1979, and the work has been overseen by the Croft Lyons Committee of the Society of Antiquaries, which was itself created as the result of a bequest to the Society by Lieutenant-Colonel G.B. Croft Lyons in 1926 for the encouragement of the study of heraldry, and which is also responsible for the Aspilogia series, presenting Rolls of Arms chronologically.

The work producing this volume has been done largely at the College of Arms. Norroy and Ulster King of Arms has been responsible for the structure of the Ordinary. Janet Grant, also of the College of Arms, and Kate Owen, the Publications Manager of the Society, produced a brief for the computer software required and a debt of gratitude is owed to Dr Trevor Chalmers, the computer software consultant responsible for the computer program. Finally, the dedicated hard work of entering and editing more than 24,000 cards has been done by Sarah Flower. This has created the present volume and made available the work of many scholars who have worked on the project since 1940.

History of the Project since 1996

Volume One of the Dictionary of British Arms – Medieval Ordinary was published in 1992, Volume Two in 1996 and the history of the project up to 1996 is narrated in articles in those volumes. Between February 1997 and January 2001 I worked out the structure of the Ordinary for Volume Three and arranged the cards in a logical sequence. In 2002 Dr Trevor Chalmers, a computer software consultant, was commissioned to work on the project by the Society of Antiquaries. Janet Grant, who had worked on both Volumes One and Two, and Kate Owen, Publications Manager at the Society of Antiquaries, produced a brief for the software required and Dr Chalmers then produced a new database programme for the Dictionary based on the manuscript structure which I had written. Other commitments prevented Janet Grant from continuing to work on Volume Three. In February 2005 Sarah Flower who was working at the College of Arms took on the work of compiling the Dictionary and by the end of May 2008 the text of Volume Three had been completed as a result of her sustained hard work. This volume of the Dictionary is compiled from more than 24,000 cards in twenty-nine card index boxes.

Structure of the Ordinary

In a codicil to his will dated 5 January 1926 and proved in the same year Lieutenant-Colonel G.B. Croft Lyons wrote: ‘I wish that a new edition of Papworth’s Ordinary should be prepared. And that in order that such edition can be generally useful I desire that the blazon of the Arms in such new edition shall follow the style of blazon in the present edition and that the new forms affected in recent years by certain writers be not adopted but that the blazon be full and exact and such that any person can as far as may be understand it.’

Papworth’s Ordinary of British Armorials was published in 1874 and was the work of two men, John Woody Papworth (1820–70), who edited the first 696 pages, and Alfred William Morant (1828–81), who edited the remaining 429 pages from material left by Papworth. Papworth’s Ordinary has no date restrictions. For the new Ordinary it was decided as early as 1941 that priority should be given to the Middle Ages which for heraldic purposes ended in 1530 when the county surveys known as ‘Heralds’ Visitations’ began.

Volume One of the Dictionary of British Arms – Medieval Ordinary covered pages 1 to 224 of the old Papworth, Volume Two covered pages 224 to 554. The present volume covers pages 554 to 835 and Volume Four will cover pages 835 to 1125. They all cover the beginnings of heraldry in the twelfth century down to approximately the year 1530.

The initial key to the structure of the present work is Papworth’s Introduction to his Ordinary in which he states: ‘The Plan of the Work is simply thus: the arms are blazoned (i.e. technically described) and are arranged in alphabetical order by the names of such of the respective charges as are first mentioned in the blazon; so that the inquirer has but to blazon the coat, and the first charge that he names shows under what title in this Dictionary the coat is to be sought ... some of the charges, such as the ordinaries and others much in use, form heads so comprehensive, that several divisions and subdivisions became indispensable: there it will be seen that further alphabetical arrangements have been observed ... This part of the plan will be best learned by inspection.’ As Papworth suggested, the best method of understanding the structure of his Ordinary is by inspecting it and this applies to the present Ordinary, which can be understood most easily.
by examination of the index of headings which immediately precedes the text of the Ordinary.

The achievement of Papworth as compared to other compilers of ordinaries was that he saw the necessity of exact order in the entries.
He devised a mode of classification that could extend from the simplest to the most elaborate coats where each had one and only one correct position controlled by the blazon. As the blazon controls the structure there are cases where an ambiguous coat in Papworth occurs more than once blazoned differently.

Papworth’s underlying principle is that once grouped under the first named charge the remaining charges in each blazon are to be considered in their degree of remoteness from the field or the centre of it. Those that are further from the centre of the shield are considered before those nearer the centre.

In a section such as On a fess between ..., the fess as the first mentioned charge determines that the entry appears under fess. The charges which the fess is between are furthest from the centre of the shield so they next control the order of the entries rather than the charges on the fess. All coats of On a fess between three crescents are grouped together, being arranged in an alphabetical order of the charges on the fess. Arms with one greater degree of complication such as On a fess between ... and in chief ... are placed under the general heading of fess and then arranged initially by the charges in chief as being furthest from the centre of the shield. Consequently all coats of On a fess between ... and in chief 1 annulet are together and beneath this heading are arranged in alphabetical order of the charges on either side of the fess.

Papworth gave a few references to sources; most ordinaries give none. The intention of the present Ordinary is to give a source for every entry. Any work compiled out of a card index of over 100,000 cards written by many hands over fifty years may contain errors. By quotation of the original source such an error should be discovered by the user. When Volume Two of this series was published in 1996 Volume Three of the Aspilogia series, namely Professor Gerard J.
Brault’s The Rolls of Arms of Edward I, had not been published. This occurred in 1997. The Croft Lyons Committee decided that for the eighteen rolls of arms of the reign of Edward I (1278–1307) the original numbers on the card of the shield in the rolls should be retained rather than those assigned by Professor Brault. Many rolls are only known from later copies which differ from one another in their order and content. The numbers used here are in some rolls different from Brault’s numbering but as the numbers here are part of the numerical order used in Volumes One and Two it was decided to retain them.

Although Papworth’s principle is the basis of this Ordinary here an exact position is controlled more by linear appearance than in Papworth’s Ordinary, where the colour of the field and of the first charge determine position within a larger general group.

Papworth has between pages 603 and 622 thirty-eight columns of One Cross commencing with an Untinctured Cross patty and ending with Vert a Cross potent Or, which is immediately preceded by Vert a Cross patty Or. In Papworth the initial division is by tincture so that all the crosses on a gold field irrespective of their linear appearance are together. An examination of the list of headings in the present volume shows that plain crosses throughout (i.e. with their limbs touching the sides of the shield) come first. Those on a plain field are at the start and are followed by those on a patterned field. Next come the crosses throughout which are themselves patterned irrespective of whether they are on a plain or patterned field. These are followed by the modified crosses throughout such as crosses engrailed which are similarly arranged with plain fields followed by patterned fields and finally patterned crosses engrailed. After the crosses modified throughout come those with three limbs throughout and then the crosses modified not throughout such as crosses botonny, crosslets and crosses flory.

If the cross is between 4 charges such as fleurs de lys then it is only the general term of blazon Cross which is initially relevant. Apart from controlling the position of the entries under the heading Cross between 4 fleurs de lys it does not matter whether the cross has limbs which touch the edges of the shield (a cross throughout) or does not, whether it is plain or modified (such as a cross engrailed) or of a distinct shape such as a cross moline similar to the French croix ancrée with hooked ends. As already noted where the crosses are alone with no other charge they follow a logical progression. This is also the case with Cross between 4 fleurs de lys, with first of all crosses throughout between 4 fleurs de lys, those with a plain field preceding those with a patterned field, which are followed by the plain (meaning with straight limbs and throughout) crosses which are themselves patterned such as checky or ermine. It is perhaps unfortunate that the same term plain is used with two meanings, one as the opposite of patterned and the other as the opposite of modified where the limbs are engrailed, indented or of some other form than plain. If the user is looking for a cross moline between 4 fleurs de lys the heading to look for is Cross between 4 fleurs de lys and the cross moline between 4 fleurs de lys will be found in its logical position.

When the cards were originally arranged a decision was taken to place lions before other beasts which then followed alphabetically and eagles before other birds which also follow alphabetically. All cases of one bird, whether an eagle or something else, precede two birds. Roses similarly precede other flowers and lion and leopard’s heads precede those of other beasts. Heads that are couped at the neck and therefore shown with a clean cut immediately precede those that are erased at the neck and have a jagged edge but only within each blazon, so that where two coats are identical but for this they will be next to each other. A pierced mullet and voided lozenge (mascle) are similarly not treated as different charges from a plain mullet or lozenge. Mullets are defined as stars of five points with straight limbs. Those with six straight limbs are called mullets of six points and not separated from those of five points. Consequently, Argent on a Fess Sable three Mullets Or is followed by Argent on a Fess Sable three pierced Mullets Or where the mullets have circular holes in the centre and finally there is Argent on a Fess Sable three pierced Mullets of six points Or. If there were any coats of Argent on a Fess Sable three Mullets of six points Or they would precede the pierced mullets of six points Or. In some sources such as J.H. Stevenson’s Scottish Heraldic Seals (1940) the word star is used. Unless otherwise stated this has been interpreted to mean a mullet of five points and not an estoile, which is a star with wavy limbs which is listed separately. Horse brays or barnacles are grouped with hemp brays or brakes. Sprigs and branches are placed with trees as they have a closer linear appearance to them than to single leaves.

Birds which resemble one another are grouped together whilst retaining their separate name. For instance, cranes, herons and storks are listed under heron &c. Heathcocks and moorcocks appear under cocks. In Volume One members of the crow family and similar birds such as rooks and ravens were listed under chough. This was replaced by crow as the general term in the second volume. Most printed sources describe the birds in the arms of Corbet as ravens. No attempt has been made to change the cards where in many cases the compilers have called them crows, and the dialect term corbie is also retained when used. It may be meant as an Anglicization of the French corbeau. The purpose of the Dictionary is to arrange the material logically and not to edit it to the extent of creating uniformity in such cases or in the spelling of surnames. Fish trap, weel and weer are all used to describe the same object. This illustrates the possible variety of blazon which has been retained. There is nevertheless some standardization of words so millrind is used in preference to fer de moline, tower is used to define turrets on a castle which is used for the main structure. The terminology list which precedes the index of headings gives both abbreviations and the term used for classification of a charge. Hedgehog sic sub urchin means that the word hedgehog can be used, but in any group it will appear under the heading urchin. Similarly, parrot sic sub popinjay leads the user to popinjay as a heading when looking for parrots. In neither case is there any indication that hedgehogs and urchins are beasts or that parrots and popinjays are birds. That is left to the common sense of the user who will soon discover that all beasts are together within each heading, as are other groups such as birds and flowers. In Volume One demi-lions were extracted to form a group before lions. The same pattern has been followed in Volumes Two and Three where demi-lions precede lions and demi-dogs precede dogs, but there is no general category of demi-beasts. Beasts, birds or other charges facing to the sinister are placed immediately after the same coat with the charges facing to the dexter. Two lions passant to the sinister therefore follow two lions passant to the dexter of the same blazon. The one exception is where the two charges face one another, such as two lions combatant, for which there is a separate heading.

The position of the lion in Volume One which covers beasts alone follows an alphabetical sequence with the exception that lions rampant as the most numerous are dealt with before the less frequent lions couchant, passant, salient and statant, which follow in that order. There is one other exception which is that lions guardant, that is with the head turned towards and looking out at the spectator, have been treated as a separate group whether rampant, passant or in some other position. Lions guardant follow lions statant and are subdivided into rampant guardant, passant guardant, and salient, sejant and statant guardant. Lions reguardant, that is with their heads turned to look back over their shoulder, follow lions guardant. In each section untinctured coats, of which there are a considerable number derived largely from collections of seals, precede tinctured ones derived from rolls of arms and other coloured sources. Unidentified beasts and birds follow lions and eagles at the head of any group of other beasts or birds. This same order is followed in Volumes Two and Three where lions are subsidiary to Ordinaries such as chevrons, crosses and fessess but the rampant lions still come first before the other lions and beasts.

The English system of cadency marks is thought to have been invented by John Writhe, Garter King of Arms, in about 1500. After 1500 a label in non-Royal heraldry denotes an eldest son in the lifetime of his father. Before 1500 the label did not necessarily indicate this and there are many instances of arms differenced by a label. Three crescents and a label follows three crescents without a label so that all coats of three crescents with a label are grouped together.

This volume covers all coats where a chief, cross or fess is the principal charge. The arrangement with fessess follows the same system as with the eagles in Volume Two and with crosses noted above. Plain fessess on a plain field are followed by plain fessess on a patterned field and then there are patterned fessess arranged according to the pattern on the fess irrespective of whether the field is patterned or not. A further division is modified fessess which follows next and is similarly subdivided. Engrailed, embattled and indented fessess are examples of those that are modified. Where a fess is between two charges in chief and something different in base it is indexed under the charges in chief in the section Fess between except where the charges in chief are unidentified.

Within the fess between section it does not matter whether the fess is plain or modified. All fessess between 6 martlets are grouped together so that first there are plain fields and plain fessess between 6 martlets, then patterned fields between them, next there are patterned fessess and finally modified ones between 6 martlets. Similarly the crosses are separated where there is no other charge but all crosses between 4 fleur de lys are together in a logical procession.

The blazon follows that used by Papworth and is ‘full and exact’, as required by Croft Lyons. There is a problem of meanings shifting.
For example, what in the fourteenth century would be called a fess indented might today be blazoned five fusils conjoined in fess. The compilers of the cards were instructed to use an unambiguous modern blazon applicable to the drawings of the Arms and the Ordinary must be used with this in mind, though occasionally compilers did not follow instructions. Where the term a Royal tressure is used it is assumed that a tressure flory counterflory is intended.

Surnames are reproduced exactly as they occur in the original source, even if scarcely intelligible or erroneous, as some errors led to later unwarranted use of arms. In this the Ordinary follows Papworth.
Variant spellings of a name tend to be grouped together so that nothing should be lost by repetition of medieval errors, or different forms of the same name such as Eyncourt and Deincourt. The index of names is computer generated and covers all names given as the principal name. It does not pick up names in editorial comment. In cases where more than one name is given in the original entry repetition of an entry with the alternative name sometimes occurs so that both are indexed. Misleading entries are also occasionally repeated with different names.

The Index of Headings and the text contain three sizes of heading. Three degrees of headings were imposed in the interests of simplicity, though there are occasions when a hierarchy of four or more would have been preferable. As far as the structure of individual entries is concerned the blazon is followed by the surname and then by Christian or other names and/or a place of residence. Next comes the source. Editorial comment follows in round brackets and square brackets are used for other material such as speculative attributions, identifications or tinctures. Many abbreviations are used and reference should be made to the list of them. In English heraldic blazon adjectives are postpositive. A red rampant lion is blazoned a lion rampant Gules. Blazons follow this form but the headings do not necessarily. ‘Patterned field plain fess’ is preferred to ‘Field patterned fess plain’.

Although the editorial process has standardized the blazons comments by the compilers can occur in their original form so occasional alternative spellings appear. Many heraldic terms are spelt in more than one way such as fess and fesse and griffin or gryphon but these have on the whole been standardized. As stated in the article on the structure of the Ordinary, the style of blazon in J.W. Papworth’s Ordinary of British Armorials (1847) has been followed but occasional variations in comments do emphasize the great variety of spelling in heraldic terminology.

Many people have worked on the Ordinary, though none for as long as Sir Anthony Wagner who was a member of the Croft Lyons Committee of the Society of Antiquaries from 1937 till his death in 1995 and General Editor of the Dictionary of British Arms from 1940 till 1995. His influence is as important on the structure as in other areas and for those who wish to study the structure in greater detail reference should be made to his articles in Antiquaries Journal, volumes 21 (1941), 299–322, and 23 (1943), 42–7, and to a progress report written for contributors dated 26 February 1948. These show the development of the structure, though some modifications have been made since 1948. Like Papworth’s Ordinary, it is best mastered by inspection and use.

By way of acknowledgement of the work of all those who wrote the index cards for the Dictionary, we include brief biographical notes, compiled from reference books, obituaries or personal knowledge. Unfortunately, so long after the groundwork has been completed, it has not been possible in some cases to discover more than the compiler’s name. The biographies have been kept as short as possible, but nevertheless contain a career summary and an indication of the journals or publications from which further information might be obtained.

GHA
Askew, Gilbert Horden, FSA (1893–1950), of Potters Bar, formed the Enfield Chase Archaeological Society with AM, CRG and COM to compile details of monuments in the churches of Middlesex and Hertfordshire. One-time Keeper of Coins and a member of the Council of the Society of Antiquaries of Newcastle-upon-Tyne, he contributed papers to Archaeologia Aeliana (an important one on Northumbrian pipes) and The Numismatic Chronicle.

MA
Ayearst, Dr Morley, MA, Ph.D (1899–1983), of Springs, New York, Professor Emeritus, Sometime Acting Chairman of the Department of Government and Director of Evening Studies, Square College, New York University; 1950–9 specialized in the study of the British Commonwealth and British West Indies.

Sources

Alphabetically by abbreviation

The list of sources includes only those referred to in this volume. At the end of each entry the initials of the person who compiled the index cards, where known, are given in brackets. Comprehensive records of the sources and compilers were not maintained and it has not always been possible to give full particulars. The editors would like to thank all those who have assisted in improving the list with details of the present whereabouts of sources. In particular they would like to thank Mrs Ann Payne, FSA, sometime Manuscript Librarian, British Library; Bernard Nurse, FSA, lately Librarian, Society of Antiquaries; R.C. Yorke, Archivist, College of Arms; Henry Beckwith, Secretary of the Committee on Heraldry, New England Historic Genealogical Society; and the late John Goodall, FSA.

Where an abbreviation is marked with an asterisk* the source is listed in Sir Anthony Wagner’s Catalogue of English Medieval Rolls of Arms published as Aspilogia I (1950) to which there are additions and corrections in Aspilogia II (1967). These give details of original Rolls of Arms and their various copies. † indicates that a roll is edited in Aspilogia II and ‡ denotes that a roll is edited in Aspilogia III.

Manuscripts previously described as in the British Museum (BM) are now referred to as in the British Library (BL) in the list of sources. References such as BM Harl MSS have, however, been retained in the text of the Ordinary and not changed to BL Harl MSS.

The list of abbreviations includes abbreviations with the words in full and vice versa. The full version has been omitted if its inclusion would have placed it next to its abbreviation. The alphabetization of the list ignores apostrophes, hyphens, numerals and spaces.

‘Sic’ indicates that the word is used in the form given.

‘Sic sub’ indicates that the word may be used in this form but in a section headed by the alternative word.

‘Say’ indicates that the alternative word is used in preference, particularly in headings, but that the use of the second word is not necessarily precluded.

The spelling of French past participles has been anglicized, e.g. ‘semy’ rather than ‘seme’.
